Prisoner Dreads Friday Sentence, Asks Speed Trial

MARTINEZ, June 24.—Because of fear that being committed to San Quentin prison on a Friday, would be ill-omened, L. H. Carlyle, 50, who is declared to have confessed to $1500 insurance premiums peculations, today urged District Attorney A. B. Tinning to permit him to plead guilty today that he might be sentenced and taken to San Quentin tomorrow.

According to Tinning Carlyle confessed last night to embezzling the premiums, when he was informed that his son, Raoul, 27, had been arrested as his confederate at the bedside of his wife in Los Angeles. The father assumed all responsibility and cleared his son.

Tinning this morning prepared an information and had trial set for this afternoon in consideration of Carlyle's superstition.

Man Refuses to Talk in Local Cutting Scrape

Frank Crosby, colored, of 1693 Willow street, Oakland, who was arrested by Richmond police on Tuesday night, following an alleged attempt by Mrs. Minnie Mora, of Kelsey street, North Richmond to take her life with a 12-inch kitchen knife, still refuses to make any statement to the police concerning the details of the knife attack. Reports from the police department last were that Crosby will be held on a charge of vagrancy, as he is reported to be wandering aimlessly about the country without visible means of support.

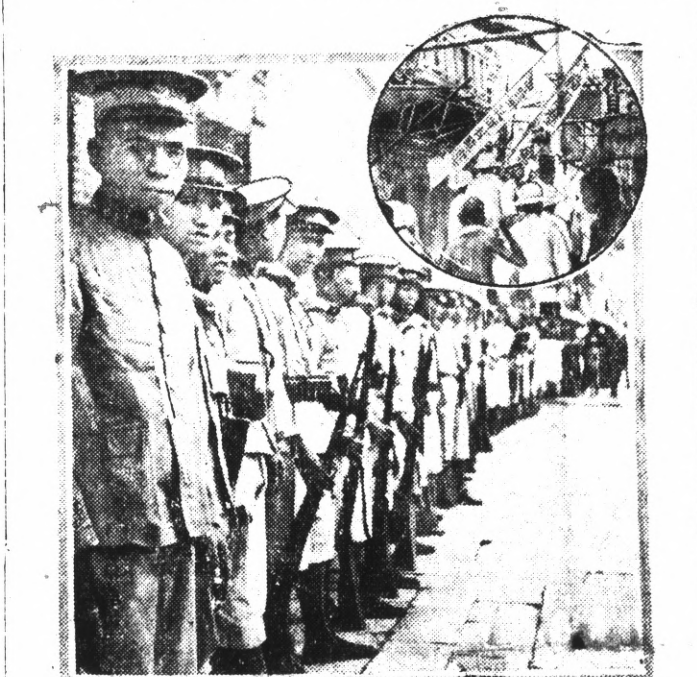

What will be done with the woman has not yet been determined by the police. She is reported resting quietly at the local hospital.

No light has been thrown on the mystery of whether Mrs. Mora attempted to commit suicide or whether Crosby tried to kill her after an altercation. Mrs. Mora in a statement made at the Cottage hospital, where she was taken to have the severe wound treated, said that the cut had been self-inflicted, but she gave no reason why. The police department is conducting a thorough investigation into the matter.

MAN HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Justice John Roth, after conducting a preliminary hearing in Richmond, held John Currier, local resident, to answer to the superior court at Martinez on a charge of violating Section 288-A of the penal code. Bail was set at $2500, and not being able to raise it, Currier was remanded to the custody of Sheriff R. R. Veale. Deputy District Attorney H. E. Jacobs is handling the prosecution.

Currier is said to have been guilty of indecent exposure involving a 7 year old boy while he and the boy were on a lonely automobile ride. Section 288-A is the California state law against Sodomy. Currier was an employee of the Standard Oil company. His arrest is said to have been caused by the boy's father. He will be tried in Martinez.

Army Goods Men Threatened With Wholesale Suits

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Wholesale suits against purchasers of surplus army supplies, involving millions of dollars, were forecast today by notices sent to business men in the principal cities by the war transactions section of the department of justice.

The notices forwarded to purchasers in New York, Chicago, Baltimore, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other cities are understood to state the prices paid under a fluctuating contract, negotiated by the quartermaster general's office after the armistice were inadequate.

Supplies costing hundreds of millions of dollars were sold under these contracts, which the war transactions section of the department of justice now holds were illegal. Suits ranging from a few hundred dollars to nearly half a million are in prospect to recover the difference in price.

Business men who made purchases from the government contend the contracts can not be repudiated and threaten to appeal to congress.

MANY PLANES ENTER RACES

That aviators from all parts of the state will participate in the air congress in Richmond Saturday and Sunday, June 27 and 28, was indicated yesterday in telegrams received by the local Chamber of Commerce.

One wire from Glendale stated that several airmen are planning to enter planes in the economy run from that city to the Richmond field. Two messages from Washington, D. C., stated that Major Ross E. Powell had been detailed to represent the Marine Corps here, while O. C. Richardson would represent the government air mail service.

Fresno wired they had entered the race from that city with Frank Scheltz in a Hiss Jennie; Ben Efsen in a L. Four monoplane Frank Pavia and Chris Meyling in O-X-5 Jennies, with two more Jennies qualifying. "Look out for Fresno," was their warning.

Sebastopol wired that Sonoma county would be represented by several planes from that city and Santa Rosa has several entries in the race from there.

Robert Duke, Richmond aviator and holder of the Richmond-Sacramento handicap title, will go to Sacramento and join the race from that city in an effort to retain his title. Other entries in the Sacramento race are Dr. Stirling Bunnell and E. W. Farrow.

All the races will terminate at the Richmond field Saturday morning, and there are several trophies to be awarded in each contest.

FREIGHT CAR CRASHES INTO LOCAL WHARF

WILD BOX CAR HURTTLES INTO
SIDE OF MUNICIPAL WHARF;
DAMAGE $5,000

A box car on the Santa Fe switch near the Municipal wharf No. 1, went wild yesterday afternoon, hurtled off the end of the track, completely demolished a caterpillar that was standing near, and finally brought up inside the wharf building, through the wall of which it had crashed. Harbor Master Jackson H. Misner estimated the property loss at $5000. The car was heavily loaded with asphalt, which furnished sufficient ballast to give it the terrific momentum.

According to Santa Fe officials, the crash was due to the failure of a switchman to set the brakes before the end of the track, which runs parallel with the wharf, was reached. Seven other cars, as heavily loaded as the one that left the track were behind to add force to the runaway car.

The huge caterpillar was torn into bits when the box car hit it. It was ruined beyond repair. The car was only stopped after it had torn a large hole in the concrete side of the wharf building.

Legion to Hold Fourth Ball and Building Benefit

The Richmond Post of the American Legion is the only organization in Richmond that has thus far made plans for a celebration for the Fourth of July. This affair is to be in the nature of a grand affair in the War Veterans Memorial hall ballroom on the evening of July 3, according to announcement made at the regular meeting of the Legion last night.

The ball is being given for the benefit of the American Legion endowment fund, a drive for which is now going on in this city. Ruel Cross was named chairman of the committee to make arrangements for the event.

The executive committee of the post filed a complete report of the constitution and by-laws of the organization, which were adopted at last night's meeting.

Preparations were made in a tentative way for an entertainment to be given in the near future for the building committee, by the American Legion, the United Spanish War Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The building committee which was in charge of the new Memorial hall is conceded by all to have done its work well, and now that it is finished it has been decided to show the appreciation of the veterans by a big entertainment. W. A. Vickery will head the committee in charge.

The Legion held its regular meeting last night instead of this evening, the regular time, in order to be able to cooperate with the Veterans of Foreign Wars on their encampment tonight. George Tandy, commander, was the presiding officer.

Veterans Bureau Medical Service Is Hospital Need For War Veterans

CHINA, June 24.—Establishment of an independent medical service, under direction of the Veterans' Bureau, to care for sick and disabled Veterans of the World War, will be urged upon congress at the next session, Director Frank T. Hines told the convention of disabled Veterans in a speech here today.

General Hines said the necessity for a permanent independent medical service is apparent when it is considered that the government has authorized more than $64,000,000 for hospital construction and that into these hospitals have been placed the finest equipment and facilities.

To attract to these hospitals physicians of the character desired, it is necessary to guarantee them a future which will be commensurate to their ability, he said.

A new high peak in the number of world war veterans drawing compensation for disabilities was reached this month, Director Hines said. On June 1, 208,716 veterans were receiving monthly checks from the bureau as against 177,491 in May, 24.

HOSPITALS SPEND.

Reporting to the convention on the hospitalization work which has been completed, Director Hines stated that the hospitals at Tupper Lake, New York, Chillicothe, Ohio, Camp Custer, Michigan; Excelsior Springs, Missouri; St. Cloud, Minnesota; Livermore, California, and Castle Point New York, have been opened for patients.

In addition to this new construction, he said, there has been a great deal of improvement and remodeling done at other hospitals. With the result that capacity of veterans' bureau hospitals throughout the country has been increased since July 1, 1924, from 15,801 to 26,300. Three other hospitals are now under course of construction.

The total amount authorized by congress for hospital construction is $84,595,000, of which amount $51,595,000 already has been appropriated, director Hines said that the number of hospital sites now developed or in progress of development is adequate, and that future construction will be along the line of enlargement, which will be more economical.

Round Table to Elect Officers

An important meeting of the Richmond Presidents Round Table has been called by President Guy W. Wolf to meet in the Chamber of Commerce at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Thursday, June 26.

According to the by-laws of the organization an election of officers is to be held on the last Thursday in June and all members are urged to be present and cast a ballot for the officers to serve during the next six months.

In addition, the announcement states, there are several matters of vital importance which are to be taken up at this meeting.

Europe's Movie World Subject to Monroe Doctrine

By O. D. TOLISCHUS

Universal Service Staff Correspondent BERLIN, June 24.—A European Monroe Doctrine for the European film industries is announced in the German Press under the slogan "Europe for the Europeans" and in paraphrase of an expression of former Kaiser Wilhelm "Europeans guard your holiest movie goods."

The doctrine is directed particularly against the American film, and it appears that the united front of Europe against the American film invasion is about to be realized.

Germany was the first country to establish a quota for foreign, that is American films. The quota is based on the principle that for every German film exported one foreign film may be imported. This quota system now begins to be adapted by other countries as well.

Austria plans to admit 15 foreign films for every Austrian film exported. England debates a quota of 1 to 25. Even in Paris the film quota has started.

The European film industry emphasizes that this is not an economic war against America but is merely a move "to obtain a juster exchange of film productions." The European bars to American films, it is said, will drop when American imports of European films have reached a "tolerable relation to American film exports to Europe."

Daughter Weds Few Hours After Death of Father

PITTSBURG, Calif., June 24.—The invisible interior who stikew silent ly through Maeterlinck's drama of death played his melancholy role here in a tragedy that was not one of mimicry. As if some master at the marshalling of events had carefully built up to a soul-stirring climax the extremes of joy and sorrow, Rev. James Muir, pastor of the local Congregational church died early today, a few hours before the time set for his daughter's marriage.

While members of the church were decorating the church for the daughter's wedding, the father who had expressed the wish that the marriage take place before his death, was fighting with all his remaining strength, against the forces of dissolution. The fight was a vain one, for Rev. Muir died at 3 o'clock this morning. At almost the same hour, the church members who had been working at night to prepare for the wedding, finished putting up the last of their decorations.

The bride, Eva Madele Muir, is Rev. Muir's eldest daughter. She had been engaged for some time to Donald E. Ward, president of the local chamber of commerce. Several days ago, when Rev. Muir, stricken with a mortal illness, realized that his end was near, he asked that the marriage take place before he died.

It was to have been one of the biggest weddings ever held in this section of Contra Costa county. Hundreds of invitations were sent out. They were cancelled today, but in conformance with Rev. Muir's last wish, the wedding took place in the church today at noon, the appointed hour.

Rev. Fred Sanderson, a close friend of the pastor, was called upon to perform the ceremony. Only immediate members of the family were in attendance.

Rev. Muir was 55 years of age and a native of Scotland. He had lived in Pittsburg for the past three years. He has three children, James, Grace and Eva.

All Standards Defeat Refinery In S.O. Game

TEAM SWEEPS FROM BEHIND HANDICAP, WINS

STANDARD OIL LEAGUE

Club— W. L. Pct.
Mechanics 1 1 .500
All Standards 1 2 .666
Barrel House 2 3 .400
Refinery 3 4 .429

Sweeping from behind a handicap of 2 runs in the first inning the All Standards, by means of steady and consistent playing, managed to take a 4 to 2 victory from the Refinery at First Street last night.

Freak plays, that might be termed sensational, featured the encounter. The main attraction was in the last of the second stanza when Buttsbach retired the Refinery on just three pitched balls. Gillispie got three put outs in this canto. Huzefka got a pair of assists and Thorsen got an assist.

The next came in the third when "Intalib" Chick Autry stopped all over a punt half way between first and pitcher's box, rolled over a couple of times, and with a mighty heave when he was flat on his back, threw to Zimmerman who made the put out.

Zimmerman figured in the next one. Gillispie was robbed of a perfect hit when the speedy second sacker made a flying tackle and spiked the ball in mid-air with one paw.

No long hits were there to thrill the fans, but Chattleton, who has been in quite a slump lately, came out of it and snacked a double, schulte, Gillispie and Zimmerman, also got doubles.

The Refinery got only half a dozen widely distributed safe connections, while the Friemmen garnered nine. But the latter made far better use of what they got.

Buttsbach of the winners and Wolfram of the vanquished both pitched marvelous games, keeping what few hits there were well distributed and short. But the victorious nine did a little better fielding, a little better hitting, a little better base running, and consequently won the game. They did make three times as many errors, however.

In the seventh inning Nelson arrived a first on a little hit to the infield. With all good intentions, Carson attempted with all his might to sacrifice him to second. It wasn't his fault that Zimmerman who covered first forgot to touch the sack and let him arrive safe and sound.

and refused to introduce Doug.

And it was war, too—war for the prettiest girl they had ever seen. It made a dangerous enemy of his very best friend—for all was fair in this great game of love. It made him attempt to climb the most dangerous peak in all the Swiss Alps. And it used to make him dizzy to look out a second-story window.

This is just part of the plot of "Introduce Me," Douglas MacLean's latest starring success, now at the California theatre. It is Douglas MacLean's first photoplay from an original story since he became an independent producer. It's filled to the brim with original twists and packed with MacLean humor and left-you-out-of-your-seat laughs.

Other features on the same program include Bennie Leonard, world lightweight champion, in "The Surprize Fight," "Paris Creations," a treat for the ladies; "Western Seas," a Robert Bruce scenic; Larry Canelo at the organ.

"Those Who Dance" At The Richmond

John Barleycorn may be officially dead, but his ghost is lively enough to have reached the screen and inspire the filming of Thomas H. Ince's powerful new drama, "Those Who Dance," a First National release which opened at the Richmond theatre last night.

Ince has told the story of Ince in his new production, and told it with a dramatic sweep of action and vigor of presentation that make one wonder why some one, long ago, didn't have the courage to gamble upon song of the dramatic Ince, which have become daily occurrences since the Volstead act went into effect and a prohibition force was organized to enforce it.

The fact that Blanche Sweet, sic Love, Warner Baxter, Mack Sennett, Robert Agnew, Lucille La Sen and Lydia Knott are included in the cast, which was directed by Lambert Hillier, would assure "Those Who Dance" an inferior screen vehicle.

The bootlegger, the hi-jacker, the "steep pigeon" detective and a range of picture-kneely colorful characters move across the screen in a series of tensely dramatic situations which build up to one of the biggest "smashes" which has been filmed recently.

Other features on the same program include "Skinners In Silk," Mack Sennett comedy; "Prizma," screen magazine.

How To Be Healthy

By JOHN W. DEEMING

MASSAGE

Massage is a valuable aid in physical development. Therefore a few hints on the subject will be of great help to us. Massage has the following effects on the body. First: An increased flow of blood to the muscles, thereby increasing circulation and removing accumulation of waste tissue. Second: It strengthens the muscle fibres. Third: It increases the size of the muscles. Fourth: It stimulates the nervous system. Fifth: It relieves congestion of the internal organs.

Massage in this case should consist only of rubbing, kneading and packing. As an aid to development and to do away with unpleasant dryness when no lubricant is used, a little olive oil rubbed on the palm of the hand or held in a saucer for the fingers to be dipped into is recommended.

If a part of the body, is to be brought up to standard the following preparation is recommended. But it should never be used on the face.

2 oz. of lanoline.
2 oz. of cocoa butter.
1 oz. of oil of cadept.
1-2 oz. of oil of sassafras.
2 oz. of extract saw palmetto.

After massage all grease can be removed from the skin by a sponge dipped in a mixture of alcohol and water. The main principle of massage is that you press lightly or not at all in working downwards, pressing more strongly in working upwards or towards the heart.

The most important point is to contract and relax the muscles as the massage proceeds. All movement should be toward the heart, except the pectoralis muscle, which you massage in an outward rotary movement, the abdomen, which is crossways, both hands working in different directions at the same time.

When you massage the sides of the body, hold the right hand above the head and rub the right with the left hand in a downward movement. Then you reverse the position. With the bers of Honor Post.

BANQUET—Fred A. Heeger, R. Reed, Geo. Ford.

Death of Three Senators, Illness Of Fourth Alarms

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Following the deaths of Senator Spencer of Missouri, LaFollette of Wisconsin and Ladd of North Dakota all during the present month, official Washington is greatly alarmed over the illness of Senator Ralston at his home near Indianapolis. This is believed to be the first instance on record when so many members have died within so brief a period.

Shortly before Congress adjourned another cycle of deaths occurred. Prandegoe of Connecticut, Colt of Rhode Island, Lodge of Massachusetts and McCormack of Illinois all died within a few weeks.

It was said today by congressional historians that the death of Senator Ladd while Senator LaFollette still lay unburied was without precedent.

The grim humor of the situation already has had its effect upon one member of the Senate. Ernst of Kentucky. Announcing that he was not feeling particularly well, Ernst hurriedly departed from Washington to take mud baths at a mineral spring resort, declaring he was "taking no chances."

Let hand above the head, massage the right side with the left hand with a downward movement.

Special attention should be given to the inside parts of the extremities where the principal arteries and lymphatics pass.

EXERCISE FOR TODAY

Spine exercise and Breathing.

POSITION

Feet about 14 inches apart, hands above head, legs straight.

MOVEMENT

Bend body forward until the hands are between legs. Exhale as the body is being brought forward and downward. INHALE as the body is brought back to starting position.

REPEAT 8 TIMES

Do not bend at the knees as you try to touch the floor, keep legs stiff. When the body comes to erect position stretch as high as you can without taking heels off the floor.

Northern Paving Company Awarded Street Contract

Improvement of Garrard Boulevard will be accomplished at the expense of $23,432.82 by the Northern Paving company according to the award made in the office of City Engineer E. A. Hoffman by the Key System and the Santa Fe railroads yesterday morning. The company underbid its nearest competitor by nearly $2,000 and others of the six that entered estimates by as much as $10,000 and $12,000.

The contract calls for full improvements from curb to curb with a four inch asphalt concrete base and one and one half inches of asphalt concrete wearing surface. The Santa Fe and Key System will stand the entire cost of the paving of Garrard boulevard from Ohio to Macdonald.

AROUND THE HARBOR

AUTO BOOKS AT LIBRARY FOR
MOTOR FANSDarrow's Life Story and Arlen's
"May Fair" Ready for Summer Readers

Among the new books at the library this week are several books of fiction, two of which have been widely read and discussed. They are Michael Arlen's "May Fair" and Knut Hamsun's "Segelfoss Town." The former will be remembered for the "Green Hat," which was one of the most popular books of last year and this. Knut Hamsun is famous for his "Growth of the Soil," a portrayal of the peasant life of the Scandinavian countries.

ADVERTISING

E. L. Koller, a member of the American federation of arts, has two new books for the advertising man entitled:

Artistic Alphabets for Show Cards and Designs. 1924.
Artistic Show Cards: How to Design and Make Them. 1924.

"The Study of Color" by Jacobs, will also prove a helpful aid to the man interested in the field of advertising.

BIOGRAPHY

The lover of biography will be interested, first of all, in "Lola Montez" an adventuress of the forties, who so prominently figured in the early gold rush to California and who ruled as uncrowned queen of Bavaria for two years.

"Farmington," is the autobiography of Attorney Clarence Darrow, who has attained prominence through his books on crime and through his participation in the recent Leopold and Loeb trial in Chicago. It is the story of his early life in a small country town.

"Impressions of great naturalists," Osborn, 1924, is a collection of reminiscences of Muir, Hurley, Darwin, Cope and others.

W. H. Townsend, author of "Abraham Lincoln, Defendant," has contributed a new book to the Lincoln collection, entitled "Lincoln, the Litigant," 1924.

AUTOMOBILES

Automobile owners will find much to aid and interest them in:

Blanchard—My Automobile: Its Care and Operation. 1924.
Blanchard—Electrical Equipment of the Automobile. 1924.

Blanchard—My Ford: Its Care and Repair. 1925. This has been written for two classes of Ford owners, those with little or no mechanical ability and those who are mechanically inclined and wish to acquire a thorough knowledge of engine troubles, overhauling, etc.

Four Nations Plan
Common Action in Chinese Troubles

(By Universal Service)
PARIS, June 24.—An active diplomat exchange has been going on among London, Paris, Tokio and Washington, during the past two weeks as the result of which may be a four party accord for common action in China, according to information coming to Universal Service from a high diplomatic source late tonight.

In this connection there is reliable information that "Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, of England, has called a conference to meet in September of all powers interested in China with the object of discussing Chinese tariffs, and also for a general amelioration of the relations of Occidental powers with China."

It is declared that there is no doubt but that as a preliminary to this conference, Paris and London are now preparing a joint accord.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA HEADQUARTERS OF WESTERN AUTO
SUPPLY COMPANY WHICH OPENED YESTERDAY IN OAKLAND

The formal opening yesterday of what is conceded to be one of the largest and best equipped automobile accessory stores in the United States, that of the Western Auto Supply company's new Northern California headquarters at 24th and Broadway, Oakland, marks another milestone in the amazing growth of this organization that has grown in less than ten years from one small accessory store to an elaborate chain of up-to-date stores, that covers every city and town of importance in the Western States.

The tremendous growth of this organization can be attributed only to one man, one woman, a sound commercial idea and plenty of indomitable courage. George Pepperdine, the founder of the Western Auto Supply Company, established in 1909 in Kansas City, Mo., what was really the foundation of the now largest and most important automobile accessory distributing organization in the world. At that time, when automobiles were sold minus horns, spare tires and other accessories, he was a bookkeeper in Kansas City. Convinced that there was a well defined market for attachments that would increase the pleasures of the individual motorists, Pepperdine decided to invest his available capital in a direct way by mail advertising campaign. Several hundred circulars were printed describing different automobile accessories then in vogue and these were mailed to motorists in and about Kansas City. And the idea took hold. From the money received with the orders as a result of the mailing of these first circulars, Pepperdine was able to secure the merchandise, fill the orders and realize a small profit, which he immediately used to extend the campaign to a larger list of names.

The growth from then on was rapid. It soon became necessary for him to give up his position and devote his entire time to the rapidly growing business.

In the early part of the mail order business, Pepperdine, with the able assistance of Mrs. Lena R. Pepperdine, now vice-president and treasurer of the company, transacted all business from the home in which they were then living in Kansas City. The business, however, rapidly outgrew this arrangement and it became necessary for Pepperdine to secure desk space in a downtown garage, which likewise did not long prove sufficient room for the business that was growing by leaps and bounds.

The next natural step was the establishment of a retail store in Kansas City, which experienced quite a rapid growth as the mail order business had undergone and was one of the leading businesses of its kind when Mr. Pepperdine was forced, on account of ill health, to sell out his holdings and remove to Denver, where a similar establishment was started.

The business prospered in Denver, as it had in Kansas City and in 1915 Pepperdine disposed of a part of his interests there and they removed to California, where he established the first store of what is known as the Western Auto Supply Company, chain. That his idea of service to motorists and a determination to give them the best possible automobile equipment at exceptionally favorable prices has borne fruit is evidenced by the fact that since 1916 the Western Auto Supply Company has opened and now has in operation over 125 stores in the Western States.

From the time of his first start in Kansas City, Pepperdine has been ably assisted by Mrs. Pepperdine, who has the reputation of being one of the ablest business women in the United States. Her keen judgment and forceful personality have done much to make possible the prosperous condition of the company of which she is one of the acting heads.

The new Oakland store of the Western Auto Supply company is typical of all of the organization's stores where they may be located. The managers of these stores are carefully chosen from the ranks of Western Auto employees or, as it might be termed, the Western Auto Family. Many of the employees have been with the organization since its start. Hal G. Baker, now general sales manager, was the first paid employee of the Western Auto Supply company.

E. R. Baker, new manager of the Oakland store, who will also act as district manager for the Northern California district, comes to Oakland with a splendid reputation for efficiency as manager of the Rocky Mountain district in Denver.

Motorists will find in this new establishment that their everyday needs have been anticipated—that every worth while article of automobile equipment manufactured is on hand and can be, owing to the interior arrangement of the store, easily inspected, without the necessity of calling a clerk for that purpose.

Walsh Amazed by Court Ruling in
Teapot Dome Case

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, June 24.—"His conclusions were amazing,"

That was the striking criticism made today by Senator Walsh of Montana, after making a careful study of the opinion handed down by Judge Kennett at Cheyenne, Wyoming, exonerating Harry F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall of any wrong-doing in exploiting the naval oil reserves.

Walsh was the chief prosecutor in the famous teapot dome investigation and the revelations disclosed by his committee caused a profound sensation through the country.

Commenting on Judge Kennett's decision, which in full he had just obtained, Walsh said:

"It is a striking fact that Judge Kennett did not uphold one of the contentions of the government. His conclusions were amazing in the face of the facts presented in my opinion."

OPINION UNPOPULAR

In his introduction the judge stated he felt sure that his opinion would be unpopular. I wonder why he predicted it would be unpopular. The fact is, he knew that the public, which had carefully followed the sensational disclosures by the public lands committee, was convinced there was something rotten in the Teapot Dome transaction and it will take more than the opinion of Judge Kennett to disabuse them of that conclusion."

It is intensely interesting to study the opinions of Judge Kennett and Judge McCormick, regarding their conclusions about the same state of facts, the senator added. He pointed out that McCormick, who decided that the transfer of the Elks Hill naval reserves to E. L. Doheny was illegal and contaminated with fraud. To some extent, he said, the two cases were parallel, which makes Judge Kennett's decision all the more puzzling.

After declaring that Judge Kennett's decision will not tend to restore the courts to popular favor, Walsh said he will look forward with keen interest to the decision of the supreme court when the case reaches that tribunal.

STAR SALESLADY
TAKES COURT BY STORM AT TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Miss Edith Hendricks, bright-eyed and pretty, young saleslady who admits she is twenty, but looks to be sixteen, stormed the courtroom of Judge Thomas F. Pennefather and added the judge to her list of prospects. Miss Hendricks is a member of the staff of saleswomen representing the Star car in the San Francisco territory directly under the factory branch of the Star organization operated in the Golden Gate city. It is the only exclusive woman's sales organization in the entire automotive industry. Even the sales manager is a woman, and there is not a man who has anything to do with these Star sales ladies except through their sales manager.

The courtroom scene was staged when Miss Hendricks was called before Judge Pennefather on a suit filed by a San Francisco firm. She had her own attorney and succeeded in having the case dismissed after proving that it was a case of mistaken identity and that she was not married and never had a husband. She informed the attorney for the plaintiff that he had the wrong Edith Hendricks and the case was all over. No sooner had the judge announced that the case was dismissed than Miss Hendricks undertook to sell a Star to his honor. The deal was not closed just then, but the saleslady promised to return later and his honor admitted that perhaps he would become a Star owner a little later. He asked for time to think it over and Miss Hendricks fully expects to add the judge's name to her list of customers very soon.

SURPLUS NOW
ASSURES BIG TAX DECREASE

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The treasury surplus of $200,000,000 this year and $290,000,000 next year, announced by President Coolidge last night insures a cut of $500,000,000 in income and other federal taxes, chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee, stated today.

Chairman Green, whose committee will draft what will be known as the Green-Smoot bill, had a long conference with secretary of the treasury Mellon today, changes in rates and other features of the present law were discussed.

Later the results of last night's business meeting of the government as bearing on economy and tax reduction were the subject of consideration at the regular Tuesday cabinet meeting, where secretary Mellon reported on his conference with Chairman Green.

It is made apparent that the Sharp differences over rates which brought a clash between the administration and congress when the present revenue law was pending do not now obtain.

Green said the treasury and the committee would work in thorough cooperation in translating the available surplus into relief for the taxpayers.

SURPLUS REDUCES DEBT
The $200,000,000 surplus at the end of the current year will go to reduction of the public debt.

Secretary Mellon, it is definitely understood, will adhere to his previous determination not to submit a draft bill to congress. The name "Mellon Plan," the secretary is convinced, militated against the adoption of his proposals.

This year he will outline the condition of the treasury and present the administration's recommendations. This will be done at a hearing before the ways and means committee.

The definite insurance of a $200,000,000 reduction, Green asserted, also makes it definite that the surtax maximum will be cut to 25 percent, graduated reductions will be made in proportion in the other brackets all down the line. This will account for $175,000,000 to $200,000,000 of the $300,000,000 total.

Mae Marsh Stars
In "Daddies" at
The Wesley Church

When "Daddies" plays at the Wesley Methodist church Friday evening, patrons will have the opportunity to see one of the best film offerings of the season.

This is a picturization of the David Belasco stage success that had such a long and successful run in the New York and Chicago theatres. It is a delightful comedy drama, replete with pathos and heart appeal, presented by a splendid cast. It is another of the Warner Brothers Screen Classics.

In the cast of "Daddies" you will see such well-known screen favorites as Mae Marsh, Harry Myers, Claire Adams, Crauford Kent, Claude Gillinger, Millie Davenport and others.

Bachelor life, single blessedness, call it what you will, furnishes the motive power for "Daddies." It is the story of five Yale men who, while yet in college, form a bachelor's club. Each agrees not to marry unless he first pays a five thousand dollar resignation fee to the club. The story opens with the annual club banquet.

A suggestion is adopted at this banquet which, unbeknown to the members, signs the club's death warrant. Each member of the club agrees to adopt a war orphan. Later one member finds out his "orphan" is a beautiful girl seventeen years old. Another finds his "orphan" is a beautiful girl seventeen years old. Then the bachelors each learn that adopting orphans is an easy matter, but looking after them is much different thing.

THE SITUATION IN CHINA

Responsibility for the present trouble in China rests primarily with European and Asiatic powers which have not ceased to look upon China as a legitimate object of greed and injustice. China is compelled to maintain her tariff rates on imported commodities at a maximum of 5 per cent. Thus the means of supporting the central government are destroyed.

The policy of the American government in China has always stood out in sharp contrast with that of other great powers. Under McKinley and Hay the partition of China after the Boxer rebellion was prevented. The Chinese people have since looked upon the Americans as their traditional friends.

Bolshevik representatives in China having in mind of course no good to the Chinese people but only the opportunity for fomenting revolution along communist lines, have seized upon the aggressions of other powers as an excuse for assuming championship of Chinese interests. It is fortunate that our government at such a time has so fine a record of disinterested friendship and fair treatment for China.

The strike in Shanghai began because of the flogging of Chinese operatives in Japanese-owned textile mills. The resultant disorders have been fanned by bolshevik agents in an effort to bring about an oriental uprising against the western world. The student demonstrations which led to the shooting of unarmed demonstrators by British police at Nanking were not conscious communist ebullitions, however, and the justification for firing upon the paraders is not clearly established. Child labor in Shanghai textile mills commands a wage as low as two dollars a week. It is this sort of industrialism to which our American foes of protection would expose the American producer in free competition.

In this crisis the American government will be found leaning toward the policy of a square deal for China, a nation which is the natural object of foreign exploitation because their pacificism renders a people defenseless. China is a horrible example of the state to which our own pacifists and foes of preparedness would bring the American people.

The powers which continue the policy of injustice toward China, merely because she has not the means of defending herself, are playing into the hands of bolshevism and exposing the Orient to the danger of revolution and a world-wide yellow peril. If the league of nations is of any value to the cause of world peace, this is a situation which it might well take up. As matters now stand, whatever is done in China to ensure peace and justice will doubtless have to be done by the United States on its independent initiative.

OUR PROSPERITY

According to the United States Chamber of Commerce there is a motor car in operation in the United States for every seven inhabitants of the country. Eight billions of dollars are spent annually for automobiles. Two billions go for new cars and the balance for gasoline, repairs and accessories. There are 17,500,000 motor cars in use in the United States according to the figures presented.

Without going into a discussion of the economic effects of the motor industry, it is shown that during the rise of the motor era in America saving deposits have nearly doubled, individual bank deposits have more than tripled and life insurance in force has increased two and a half times.

One of the first facts which strikes the average tourist to Europe is the scarcity of motor cars. In Bulgaria there are no more automobiles than in the average small American city. Nowhere across the Atlantic is there anything like the proportionate number of automobiles as in America.

Here may be found another reason why radicalism does not grow and prosper in America. Our automobiles are not owned principally by the wealthy as in Europe. The greater proportion of them belong to the farmer, the teacher, the mechanic, the clerk, the small merchant, the railroad man, and so on. They are indicative of the progress and general prosperity of America, all the more significant that in addition to growing automobiles, we have been growing savings bank accounts, individual bank deposits and life insurance at the same time.

Bolshevism will not prosper under conditions which produce in a nation such prosperity and progress among all classes of citizens.

Trim Your Straw Hat With Velvet For Midsummer.

THE velvet-trimmed straw hat is well established for summer wear. The wide-brimmed straw hat seemed almost too well suited to the demands of the season, so just to show that she was quixotic still, fashion decided to trim her wide-brimmed straw hats with velvet. When the velvet consists merely of a lining to a thin straw hat or a tiny bow or two on the crown, the effect is still fairly summery; but when a wide-brimmed straw hat is faced with rich velvet and further ornamented with a large pouf of the velvet at the side, then we begin to ask whether the hat is, after all, quite appropriate for warm weather. But there really is nothing consistent about millinery fashions anyway. We begin wearing flower-trimmed straw hats in February and lay them aside in May for felt sport hats and velvet or velvet-trimmed straw for midsummer.

Velvet-trimmed wide-brimmed hat or bangkok straw hats have been chosen for bridesmaids at many of the June weddings. Sometimes a wide-brimmed straw is chosen, trimmed only with a large bow of velvet ribbon to match, placed at the front of the crown.

In some of the summer hats the velvet is used in the form of some novel sort of trimming. One crin shape is trimmed only with a large velvet question mark at the front. Others show application of various interesting velvet shapes.

The sketch shows two hats of this description that have been chosen by two especially well-dressed women. One of navy blue straw is faced with gray velvet, which also forms the large irregular pouf on the right side. Below it is a fuchsia-colored crin shape with a band of exactly matching velvet ribbon around the crown and edging the brim. Velvet flowers shading from fuchsia to pink are applied to this velvet band, and there is a scarf made from the fuchsia velvet ribbon.

THE SPONGE CAKE

MOST people like a good sponge cake and of all cakes it is perhaps the most nourishing. It is not rich nor heavy. It is the first cake allowed to young children.

Here is a recipe for sponge cake that makes the making of it quite simple. If you want to have success be sure and measure all ingredients very carefully.

Mix together one cup of powdered sugar, one cup of flour and two level teaspoons of baking powder, and a pinch of salt. Beat the yolks of two eggs and stir this into the mixture and add a half cup of boiling water, mixing all thoroughly. Now beat the whites of the eggs and add them to the mixture. Line loaf tin with waxed paper and pour the batter into this and bake in a moderate oven.

THE STRAWBERRY SHORT-CAKE

Individual patty cakes, with the inside scooped out, filled with crushed berries, the filling and additional berries placed on the plate, and whipped cream, sweetened, over all make good shortcakes.

WHEN A FRIEND GOES TRAVELING

Next time you have a going-away gift to send to a traveling friend, look to the wrappings. There are some shops that sell special paper, really quite beautiful paper, something like the figured lining to envelopes, for wrapping bundles. This sort of paper cost something, of course, but it adds just the touch of distinction to make your gift interesting. Ribbon or cord or gummed paper tape to harmonize with it should be used.

WHERE IT STARTED

"BITS"

The expression "two bits" meaning a quarter of a dollar, or "Four Bits" fifty cents, etc., comes from the early use of the Spanish real as a coin in the United States. The real, having a value of one-eighth of a dollar, was called the "New York shilling." In the Southern states these coins were called "bits" and from their value two "bits" made a quarter. The coin is obsolete, but the value remains.

Enticement

by Clive Arden

CHAPTER XI

Valley's holiday resembled that of the proverbial lunatic. Though claimed by no operative contract for a time, the claims on his good nature were many. London was filling up. Private and public concerts for charities abounded. Concert singing held for him as little attraction as being "honored." For the sake of distraction he endured both.

About eleven o'clock on the Monday evening he returned to his rooms after singing at a concert. These rooms had belonged to him since pre-war days. He had furnished them bit by bit, prompted by the mood of the moment, and often by Leo. No exotic splendor or oriental seductiveness distinguished them. The paint was white, the walls of his music-room a soft-toned gray. Golf-clubs and tennis-rackets elbowed piles of music and shelves stacked with books. Comfortable chairs and thick rugs dotted the polished floor, whereon the grand piano stood well to the fore—a friend all ways ready, generally in use.

Leo stood on the threshold and held out two trembling hands.

A quick nervous rattle of the door-handle shattered his illusions; brought him quickly back to earth. Aware of another presence in the room, he turned round. And for once Val's fingers clanged disorderly upon the keyboard. He sprang to his feet with a cry.

Leo stood on the threshold and held out two trembling hands.

He looked at her stupidly, making wild efforts to grasp his self-control. This appearance in the very midst of the passionate longing for once unchecked in his voice, came with the shock of an apparition called up by his own emotions. Though the figure and face were those of Leo, he scarcely recognized the spirit they clothed. Her eyes clung to his in a frightened way strangely unlike their usual candor. Realizing that she was shaking in every limb, he put an arm round her shoulders and drew her forward, closing the door behind her.

"What is it? . . . Dear, you are trembling so! Tell me what has happened."

She grasped his free arm, and her voice sounded as frightened as her eyes still looked.

"Val . . . you . . . told me I—had your love—" Her voice, scarcely more than a whisper, trailed away. His clasp tightened convulsively; but he only muttered something incoherent in assurance.

"I—I can't go on without it. I have left Harry. . . . Val, I have come to you if—"

So still she lay . . . so still . . . By degrees the man's dazed mind cleared. He became conscious of her passivity and loosened a little his hold. With one shaking hand he removed the hat she wore.

"Take off your coat," he whispered unsteadily. Still utterly passive, she allowed him to draw each arm free of the fur motoring coat. He threw it across a chair and half led, half carried her to the big settle.

"You are worn out," he murmured, his cheek against her hair. Laying her down among the cushions, he fell on his knees and hid his face upon her breast. Her hands stole round his neck with a clinging, almost protective movement. But she stared across his bowed dark head with the eyes of one who sees nothing.

"I—have—left—Harry," she heard her voice saying again dully.

He raised his face and found her lips once more. "Forget . . . forget . . . my beloved! . . . forget . . . You have come—home again. . . . Forget all else now save you and me." . . . Pushing the hair from her brow, he kissed her eyes, once after the other. "Is it real? . . . Can you be real? . . . You? . . . After hating me by day and by night? . . . My darling! . . . I have yearned for you . . . I have yearned for you! . . . I have yearned for you! . . . Your voice has been in every chord . . . Your face has looked up at me from every seat in the dark theaters. . . . It has lain on my pillow. . . . Oh, how I love you!"

Half-sobbing, he buried his face again upon her own. All his turbulent spirit was unbundling itself at last. Yet there was no trace now of the animalish lack of self-control which once had revolted her. Leo could cling to him to-night, her own starved heart soothed by the warmth that shivered around it. But still her eyes held that peculiar, unseeing, distant look.

"Come!" His voice sounded hoarse. He struggled into his own coat and made for the door. "You are not in a fit state to reason to-night. Nor am I. But I know . . . I know . . ."

"It is . . . it's in my room . . . come."

Again from the doorway, the pale face of "Midi" seemed to gaze down into her own. His arm to entice her away to somewhere distant, somewhere unknown to the world of hard plain facts.

At about eight o'clock next morning a taxi from Covingham Station surprised the inhabitants of Willerton who were out in the roads. Passing the church and vicarage, it whirled up the main village street, down the lane to The Towers, and through the open lodge gate.

This was the home where Leo's body lived. This was the house wherein her spirit had wandered unmoored, craving his in its loneliness. These were the material comforts she had felt—would renounce—for his sake.

After a sleepless night and an early journey, his nerves, under the present stress, seemed each to be a living, vibrating wire.

What would be the result of this quixotic adventure? Fullness or emptiness? . . . The forthcoming interview with the man who had conquered Leo's love held for him a curious fascination. He felt the kind of curiosity he would have felt over the instruments about to lacerate his flesh in an operation.

Pomfrey opened the door, looking, as Leo said, like his own effigy.

Mr. Wallis, he informed this unusually early visitor, had left over an hour ago for Manchester . . . on business.

CHAPTER XII

The people waiting for trains at Covingham Station regarded curiously the tall stranger pacing impatiently up and down the platform. Impatience was too foreign to their lives to be appreciated. Their own unemotional features set heavily, their close-cropped heads bulging with self-importance over their own "Business," the men were accustomed to waiting for trains gazing stolidly at the metal of the line until the engine hove in sight. His grace of movement and vivid picturesque appearance struck them as strange and therefore freakish. They eyed him with suspicion.

Val studied their demoniacal close-by, through apparent casual glances. He searched, remembering Leo's words, for the soul she had missed in these eyes which looked as if they visioned figures—figures before which stood an L and an S and a D—endless figures.

"Lord!" he thought. "I can see them enjoying heavily their whisky and their bridge! What else? What else? What else? Oh, my Leo!"

Pomfrey had not expected his master back for several days, but could give no address. Val had gone straight to the works. Armed with a business address only, his nerves yet more fretted by delay, he snatched some breakfast in the town and waited for the next train to Manchester. He felt furiously angry with Wallis.

And this anger gave the devil seeking to shake his resolve an added weapon. He visualized his own actions had the position been reversed. He imagined himself receiving the letter Leo had left behind. The shock—the awful emptiness—the wild madness of loss—the elemental fury of an animal robbed of its mate. Val could conjure up each phase of such a moment. But . . . business in Manchester, next day! That he could not visualize. On the wings of the wind he would have flown to Leo.

Leo had not yet returned—no fresh news had been received of his movements. The same information was vouchsafed later at the works. He was supposed to be still in Manchester. If not, probably unexpected private developments of his business had taken him elsewhere.

With growing uneasiness, Val wandered about the streets; tried to read the newspapers; stared unseeing into shop-windows. Twice he rang up Willerton. Three times he returned to the works. At last, late in the afternoon, after arranging for a wire man-dated, any news came through, he caught the train back to town.

Val arrived at Manchester soon after midday. He drove, this time, straight to the hotel. The same severe lady at the bureau eyed him curiously—suspiciously, he fancied. Mr. Wallis, was there, she said; had just come in. . . . She lifted her mouth from the telephone. "What name?"

Upon quick reflection, Val decided not to give his name. "I wish to see him privately. . . . Urgent business. . . . Somewhere alone—where we shall not be interrupted."

The lady called a page, to whom she gave quick instructions in her manner of terrific efficiency quite frightened Val. Feeling himself dismissed by the shoulder now turned toward him, he followed the page into the lift. Along a corridor that seemed endless, he was led at the rate of about fifty miles an hour . . . round innumerable corners . . . until at last he found himself alone in a small sitting-room.

A queer silence had apparently fallen over the entire world. Val walked to the window, which overlooked a narrow side-street. He noticed a small boy throwing stones for a puppy. He wondered very clearly and seriously how many stones the boy had already thrown, and how many more he meant to throw. If he threw three a minute for an hour, that would be three times sixty . . . one hundred eighty . . . Yes, one hundred eighty . . . But surely the puppy's mouth would get sore? Perhaps the stones were round ones.

For what seemed like hours Val was only conscious of the boy, the stones and the puppy . . . and of a funny twitching sensation in his fingers which he could not control. He had just decided to close his hands to stop the twitching, when a startlingly abrupt turn of the door-handle made his nails bite into the palms they were meeting. . . . He braced his shoulders as if for a high jump and turned round.

TUBERCULOSIS OVERCOME
Oakland, Calif.
April 23, 1925.
For about three years I suffered from a bad cough and sore chest. I tried many doctors, all of whom pronounced my case Tuberculosis. My appetite was exhausted and showed tubercular germs. As I found no improvement from the treatments that I took, I decided to give the PONG WAN HERBS a test, as a last resort. After having drunk the herbs for four months, I was a well woman and had gained in weight. A year has elapsed since I began to take the PONG WAN HERBS on April 16, 1924, but today, I am still well and have no sign of my former complaints.

WILDEST NIGHT OF LATIN REVEL HELD IN PARIS

(By Universal Service)

PARIS, June 24.—After the wildest night even in the annals of the Latin quarter Paris awoke late this morning to find that this year's four arts ball will probably be the last.

Without even waiting for the revelers to be cured of their headaches, the French morality league which was formed last night to clean up Paris, sent out a broadside today denouncing last night's affair as a "saturnalia disgracing the name of the French people" and called on the authorities to forbid the annual orgy once and for all.

"Reliable reports show that nearly a thousand men and women partook of a celebration in the name of Babylon of which even King Belshazzar would have been ashamed," the manifesto asserts.

"Completely nude men and women paraded amid scenes of drunkenness unparalleled in the famous orgies of the Roman empire. The actual scenes, if printed, would result in the instant confiscation of such a book or newspaper by the police and the prosecution of the author."

"Meanwhile foreigners of whom many hundreds were present looked upon this as an example of French morality."

The students are preparing a counter protest which, however, will not be published today as a result of their inability to get their brain in working order to prepare it.

Clark, yesterday morning. The remains will be borne to St. Helena by auto for burial in the family plot. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 p. m.

STARVING IN GARRETS STILL PAINTERS' FATE

Universal Service Staff Correspondent
PARIS, June 24.—The days of Travail when artists starved in garrets are apparently not over, judging by the experience of Jean Guiraud, painter.

Jean Guiraud, in 1914, won the coveted Prix de Rome. His canvas, "The Virgin's Passion," marked him as perhaps the most promising artist of that year.

After the war, in which he fought, Jean attracted attention by his nude studies. He was awarded the great honor of being elected a member of the Society of French Artists. In 1923 he won an honorable mention, and last year the Alphonse-Neuville prize for the most distinguished painting of the year was awarded him.

And—the other day he fainted in the streets of Paris. Picked up and revived by a cup of hot soup, he said that he had not eaten for four days.

"As prices are nowadays I can live for a week on what I am paid for a painting that has taken me months to paint," he said.

MRS. WILSON FUNERAL HELD

Last rites for the late Mrs. Mary G. Wilson, El Cerrito resident, who passed away at her home on Pomona avenue, Monday evening, were held yesterday afternoon from the El Cerrito Methodist church. Mrs. Wilson was a native of Sweden, aged 58 years. Interment was in Sunset View cemetery.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS ZONING TALK AT MEET

Frank V. Cornish, former city attorney of Berkeley, emphasized the benefits of zoning in a modern city in his speech before the members of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon. 70 per cent of the population of the United States is urban today in contrast with 2 per cent a century ago, according to Cornish. Therefore, he contends, zoning is an imperative necessity, and individual needs should yield to social necessity.

Frank Schallenberger, principal of Roosevelt Junior union high school, was chairman of the day. Community singing was led by Pryce Roberts with Emil Esola accompanying. The attendance prize, a drink mixer, given by R. Bruce Douglas, was won by R. Lee Wharton. Ralph Bergen will be chairman next Wednesday.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF ENGAGEMENT MADE

The wedding of Miss Helen Bothwell, popular Richmond girl, to Elmer Howard of Merced will be held September 20, according to the announcement made at the home of Mrs. Charles Brombacher, the fiancée's aunt, in Mira Vista. Two hearts tied together and hidden in a corsage bouquet of sweet peas at each place at the dinner table announced the glad news. A Kewpie bride and groom stood sentinel on the table. Mrs. Charles Sterns, niece of Mrs. Brombacher, was also an honored guest from Los Angeles.

Games, dancing, music and a supper rounded out a happy evening. Guests who shared in the announcement were Messrs. and Mesdames Arthur Parker, Francis Patterson and H. C. Brombacher, all of Richmond; Miss Helen Dorothy Bothwell, and Miss Hazel Okerman, the latter of Mendocino county; Mrs. Charles Sterns of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jensen of Oakland; Mesdames Fred Gates, Harold Radke and Mary Edwards.

Faris on or before July 13. The protests will be heard in the order of their filing beginning 10 o'clock on the morning of July 15. The board will not meet later than July 20.

The city budget will be presented by City Manager J. A. McVittie to the city council some time in July.

NEW STATE LAW STRIKES AT SMOKERS

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, June 24.—Official warning was served on all California smoking car frequenters that a July 24, they must deposit their discarded cigars, cigarettes and matches in the little brass cuspidor provided for that purpose or risk incarceration in the nearest jail.

It is against the law to throw from a moving vehicle any substance which is "flaming or glowing" and Attorney-General Webb ruled today that the new statute includes the heretofore sacred sanctum of Lady Nicotine's court—the smoker of electric and steam railroad trains.

Bakersfield—Oil of 39.5 gravity, highest in Kern county, struck west of Hovey Hills.

American Sportsmen Plan Hunting Reserve in Africa

LIONS FEASTING

CHICAGO—Denied by California authorities the right to stock a hunting preserve in the state with lions and tigers, The Pacific Coast Sportsmen's Club plans to establish a preserve in Africa where its members can hunt lions, elephants, rhinoceroses, and other jungle beasts, according to an announcement here by L. S. Horne, General Manager of the club.

Leslie Simpson of Oakland, chairman of the club's advisory board and famous big game hunter, said Mr. Horne, "is now in Africa and has completed arrangements for the purchase of the tract and erection of a club house. Mr. Simpson is now hunting in that part of the world with Stuart Edward White, Al Young and D. Saxon Pope. Steamship lines have agreed to take club members to Africa at a rate less than half the regular fare. The club's preserve will be located in the best big game hunting territory in Africa. "Complications with state authorities having been ironed out, the club has begun the sale of $1,000 memberships and will proceed at once with fencing its 50,000 acre tract in California and the erection of a club house. This preserve will be stocked with elephants, deer, pheasants, wild turkeys, and many other kinds of animals and fowl. It will be open for hunting, according to plans, during the coming winter."

LORD OF THE JUNGLE

TWO MILLION MORE PASSENGERS

—An Index of Community Growth

MONTH by month,—day by day—you can see the Eastbay Communities grow.

Key System Transportation service supplies a striking example of this great new civic and industrial development. In 1924, we carried 2,211,202 additional passengers, as compared with 1923.

This cost more money than we received for the service given. Our increased expense for power and transportation was $226,000. Our increased revenue was $96,000. Our net loss on these added facilities was $130,000, and this loss was incurred almost exclusively in Eastbay service.

Food, shelter, and Transportation Service are necessities for all our population. Without them our communities cannot grow. None of them can be furnished continuously at a loss.

Key System intends that its Transportation Service shall continue to develop to meet the needs of our increasing population. The total revenues must be adequate to meet the total cost of service, and should be fairly apportioned.
